FIGHT

On Tax-Dodging Corporations Begins.

County Judges and Attorneys Meet and Urge Appointment of Special Counsel To Assist Attorney-General in Tax Suits Involving Millions.

Justus Goebel Makes Strong Speech at Meeting.

At a meeting of the county judges and county attorneys of the State held at the House of Representatives, Frankfort, Ky., on Nov. 8, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That we, the county judges and county attorneys of the State, in convention assembled, heartily approve and endorse the action of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment in placing upon the great corporations of the State, enjoying valuable public franchises and privileges, their just share of the burdens of taxation and we commend their acts to the people of the State as constituting the greatest tax reform of many years, and while we entertain the very highest regard and respect for the ability of the Attorney General and his assistants and the Hon. John L. Rich, of Covington, employed as assistant counsel, we are unwilling that any lack of counsel on behalf of the State should endanger the just and patriotic action of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment, and we recommend to the Attorney General and the Governor of the State that an emergency exists and that the most eminent counsel be employed to defend the action of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment in the United States Court."

Justus Goebel, of Covington, made a speech before the assemblage, pleading for the employment of additional counsel for the State. Mr. Goebel said:

"Mr. President, Gentlemen and My Brother Kentuckians: I am most happy to meet with the county judges and county attorneys of the State. I am grateful beyond my powers of expression for the invitation of your President which permits my presence here, and asks some expressions from me on this occasion."

"You, the gentlemen of the respective counties of the State, who have been elected to office and charged by law to protect the interests of widows and orphans—estates in the hands of trustees—the every citizen and taxpayer who voted for you or against you, as well as those who did not vote at all; you, all of you, in your official capacity have sworn duties to perform, and out of gratitude to those who have honored you, you must have great desire to perform those duties well. With reference to the business of this day, to the subject-matter here to be discussed—your sworn duty is to protect the interests of every taxpayer of the county you represent."

Corporations Deny People Rights.

"You are here to consider a matter of infinite interest to your people as a whole. The subject involves an inherent and constitutional right which has long been denied them because of corporate avarice and greed and the weakness, if not dishonesty, of some in whom the people in the past have placed their trust."

"That the great common people should bear only their fair and just proportion of the burden of taxation is one of the greatest blessings to our kind for which my brother, William, labored and prayed and because of which he was finally assassinated."

"Is it surprising then that I am here filled with a profoundly earnest desire that the people of my State, of the State of my martyred brother, shall come into the enjoyment of a right to which in all law and in common honesty they are entitled?"

Unjust Taxation Upon People.

"Too long, altogether too long, has there been unjust discrimination against the people, unjust and burdensome taxation upon the people as compared with what has been required to be paid by the big corporations of our

State. Corporation lawyers have boastfully said 'The death of William Goebel was a benefit to the corporations.' If this were true, the question is, how much longer shall the people be held in bondage because of his death?

People Are Awakening.

"A hundred million dollar increase in the value of corporation property for taxation opens a new era in the State's affairs and has awakened the people and brought them to a realization of what has been done to them through all the years of the past. As certainly as truth, though crushed to earth, will rise, just so certainly will there be a further awakening which will correct abuses equally as great as unequal taxation, and its effect will be that henceforth every man who would hold office by procurement of the people must be a progressive, and no imitation, no mere pretender will satisfy them; they will sweep aside and into oblivion as old chaff any man who hesitates or dares to stand in the way of improvement and betterment of conditions for the whole people."

"No one doubts, had William Goebel been permitted to live, that that which was recently done by the Board of Valuation and Assessment would have been done more than a decade ago, and today, instead of the large public service corporations fighting in the courts and by sinister methods endeavoring to perpetuate unjust and unequal taxation; attempting to throttle the action of the present State taxing board, the first to act fully in the interest of the people, such corporations would long ago have been paying into the State, county and city treasuries their just proportion of the taxes."

JUSTUS GOEBEL. "Equality is all I want."

"Some of you may think this is mere speculation but to those who so think, I say—I know whereof I speak, and I believe the railroads will understand what he would do were he permitted to live."

William Goebel's Way.

"Had William Goebel been permitted to live, one of his first acts as Governor would have been a demand on the State taxing boards to deliver into the matter of values of the properties of the wealthy public service corporations of the State, and further that those properties be adequately assessed. If the Railroad Commission or Board of Valuation and Assessment had failed or declined to make assessments according to what was just and fair he would instantly have called an extra session of the legislature and had it appoint a committee with directions to thoroughly investigate, to find and report the true fair value of the property of such corporations. The facts thus obtained and presented by that committee and its experts he would have given to the public and simultaneous therewith would have gone forth his demand upon those State boards to assess those properties for taxation in accordance with the truth; if then the State board had still failed or refused to do their sworn duties to the people he would have impeached them and driven them from office. If the present Board of Valuation and Assessment had not done its full sworn duty by the people, that is just what should have been done to them, but, thank God, for once it has acted in the interest of the people."

"Necessity for action in the interests of the people has grown as years have passed, until it has developed into what is today a crying shame from which relief must come."

"It is very evident that in Kentucky, as in other States, big corporations will never pay a cent more of taxes than they are made to pay."

"Gentlemen, I am going to prove it in a few minutes. Take the case of the C. & O. Railroad. Where is Mr. Walt? I would like for him to hear me."

"Low Valuation of C. & O. Railroad. 'Take the case of the C. & O. Railroad. In 1911 that road on its entire system in Kentucky paid taxes on a total valuation of only $3,312,279, whereas, the street railway company of the city of Louisville was made to pay on a valuation of $10,000,000. Think of it, gentlemen!'"

"The C. & O. R. R. in 1901 paid taxes on a franchise valuation of only $2,171,189, and in 1911 on a valuation of only $2,743,360; whereas, the board found that their 1912 assessment should be $18,798,630. The C. N. O. & T. P. R. R. in 1901 paid taxes on a franchise valuation of only $3,110,197, and in 1911 on a valuation of only $3,500,000, whereas, the board found their 1912 assessment should be $10,674,200. The C. in 1901 paid taxes on a franchise valuation of only $1,353,370, and in 1911 on a valuation of only $3,510,320, whereas, the board found their 1912 assessment should be $14,746,957. The L. & N. R. R. in 1901 paid taxes on a franchise valuation of only $6,504,879 and in 1911 on a valuation of only $11,899,200, whereas, the board found their 1912 assessment should be $45,428,074."

Fight Must Be to a Finish.

"I want to tell you gentlemen, that that assessment is fair and just, and if we get justice in the courts we will win. But, no less a man than the Hon. William J. Bryan, the great champion of the people, has stated that courts do not always do justice to the people; and that other great champion of the people, Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, said the same thing, and recently charged that some of the judges had put on the bench proved dishonest. Gentlemen, I want you to go into this fight, with an ardent heart and with loyal lawyers, and fight to a finish and, if necessary, now, I want to say to you I am no corporation hater. I am a business man. I know we have to have corporations, and big ones, but we don't have to have them to the disadvantage of the people. I want them to have dividends. But I do not want them to reap them at the expense of the people and the other taxpayers. Let them pay what the other taxpayers pay. Equality is all I want."

"Without exception all these companies and the two others now suing wanted the same assessment for 1912 that they had in 1911. The Board of Valuation and Assessment based their 1912 assessments on convincing proof of values placed before them, and the assessments are uniformly just and fair, and of the more than four hundred corporations assessed by the board this year, only eight have protested in the court, and these are among those that have always proportionately paid the least."

State Robbed of Millions.

"In the last twelve years, since the death of William Goebel, the State, counties and cities have been robbed (and the word robbed is the only word that fits the case) of more than ten million dollars in taxes."

Inadequate Taxation of Railroads.

"The picture here presented of the previous inadequate franchise assessments is astounding, but when one examines into the situation regarding the tangible assessments made by railroad commissions of the properties of four of the corporations now suing the State, the word 'astounding' is inadequate and here must be supplanted by the word 'dumbfounding' to state more correctly what the tangible assessment picture actually presents."

"Take the case of the C. & O. R. R. and the records show that the tangible property of this company in 1892, 20 years ago, was assessed at $8,019,577. Notwithstanding the much added mileage of road, double tracking of a vast system, acquiring much new real estate, probably more than doubling the equipment of engines and cars, and meantime increasing by earnings the value of its stock 650 per cent, this company's tangible property was assessed in 1911 at only $6,270,270, or 21 1/2 per cent less than in 1892, 20 years ago. Further comment to show that our State has been robbed is unnecessary."

"The other railroads have been similarly inadequately assessed on their tangible property for many years. Corporations Prevent Honest Valuations. 'In fact, until this year the Board of Valuation and Assessment has been controlled in the interests of the wealthy corporations by some book or crook, either friendship, political favor rendered or to be rendered, bribery or intimidation, but never before has the State, counties or cities been given what they were rightfully entitled to. Another of the many examples of flagrant abuse of public trust. 'I wish I could leave out of my remarks what I am about to say, but that is impossible under present circumstances. Until now, I have said very little about the L. & N. Railroad. Some may say that I have an old animosity to the L. & N. Railroad Company, because of the assassination of my brother. I say, gentlemen, that is a mistake. In my state of health and at my age, I have nothing but love for my fellowmen, whether they agree with me or not. Next to the last words that my dear brother spoke were these: 'They do not understand, I forgive them. There may be some who new do not understand me, Gentlemen, the man elected to office did not do their duty. I hate to say so, but I am here to speak the truth, and I have fought for in the past seven months is justice and fairness for the people.'"

"Another of the many examples of flagrant abuse of public trust is to be found in the records of our State pertaining to the franchise assessments by the Board of Valuation and Assessment of the L. & N. R. R. In 1901 this company's franchise assessment was $6,504,879. In 1902 the assessment was increased to $10,774,890, and the L. & N. brought suit to enjoin the State from collecting on the increase of $4,270,020."

"I said a while ago that the corpora-

GROWTH OF THE MOVEMENT.

Jefferson County Leads With Its Magnificent Gardening Land—How William Frey Grew Eighty-eight Bushels of Potatoes on One-fourth of an Acre.

Gradually the thinking school people are beginning to see and understand that if the parents will not go to the school the school must go to the home and make itself felt. Nothing has helped more in this movement than the boys' corn and potato clubs in this and many other states. The tremendous growth of the movement is due largely to a rational use of the children's enthusiasm and desire TO DO SOMETHING THEMSELVES. PLEASURE IN ACHIEVEMENT COMES FROM DOING IT YOURSELF, and pleasure in achievement is the largest factor in human life."

William and Walter Frey live about eight miles from Louisville in a splendid farming and gardening section of Jefferson county. When your reporter visited them on Saturday, 2d of November, he found them busy storing "second crop" potatoes for the winter market.

William Frey, the elder brother, grew one-fourth of an acre of potatoes this season. He harvested eighty-eight bushels of splendid tubers on the plot. When he was asked about the crop and its cultivation, he said:

"Yes, that yield was some better than most of the neighbors around here. You see, eighty-eight bushels on my little piece is the same as 117 barrels to the acre. Of course I did some of the neighbors didn't do, because I did all of my work from the directions the government sent me. Every body plows manure under when they break the ground in the spring, but I used my two big wagon loads of rotted manure for a top dressing after my potatoes were in the ground."

"The folks that came over here said my potatoes were darker green than any of the others in the neighborhood, and we all saw that the vines were mighty heavy, and fine. I went over the patch three times with a fourteen tooth cultivator, and I was careful not to let it get deeper than two inches. After that I gave it two workings with a five tooth cultivator."

"Yes, my potatoes will get the first prize this year in this county. It'll make the quarter of an acre pay mighty well, because it's $50 in gold."

Walter Frey, the younger brother, has an acre of corn in the contest, but it had not been husked when your correspondent visited the farm early in November. The ground showed that careful work had been done during the summer, and the eighteen huge shocks that stood upon the acre gave promise of a large yield."

"I planned the Boone County White that the night furnished us boys," he said in answer to my question, "but I only got about half a stand of corn, so I had to use some of our own Boone County for replanting the acre. Of course a bad stand is a mighty poor start in a corn contest. Next time I am going to test the seed so as to be sure about my stand."

"I used a lot of manure on that acre. Before I plowed it this spring I scattered four big loads of manure so I could turn it under."

"I was going to do more plowing on that year, but a big windstorm tangled it so I had to quit early. I did cultivate four times and didn't stir the ground more than two inches deep. The directions for corn makes that a mighty strong point."

School Notes.

Arbor day has come and gone and the trees are planted and all who had a part in it are glad. School dismissed Thursday afternoon for a real holiday, and all the teachers and pupils entered into the spirit of the occasion with such zeal and enthusiasm that trees almost volunteered to come at their bidding. The patrons of the school also caught the mania of tree planting so much so that it was difficult to find room for all the trees that were brought. There was a little misunderstanding as to where different ones were to plant, and some were disappointed in not getting to plant where they most desired. But we hope that they will appreciate the fact that where so many are to plant that it is difficult to give each his especial desire. The main object of all was to get trees planted on the campus and that now is done and we hope that all will join in the glad feeling that comes from seeing that the children's public play place now bears the appearance of a human habitation. By the combined efforts of teachers, pupils and patrons there were planted in the grounds 183 trees with room left for 6 more that will be set at once. We feel that our effort has not been, by any manner of means, a failure, for the State authorities undertook to plant 120 trees on the capitol grounds on Wednesday, Nov. 13, and only succeeded in planting 80. We undertook to plant 169 and planted 183. Now that is not so bad, is it. We never saw people more anxious to do a good deed than they were in West Liberty last Friday, and we feel glad that we undertook the enterprise. We wish to thank all who helped and those who could not help but wished us well in our labor of love for the children."

We promised last week that we would publish a list of all who took part in the tree planting, but we will be unable to do so, for while we were gone to the woods to get trees many planted whose names we did not know and on that account we couldn't give all the names, so we will just say that we think most everybody in the neighborhood who could do so planted a tree or helped others to do it. In publishing the list of those who last week had volunteered to plant a tree, we omitted, by mistake, the name of the first man who volunteered to plant—Judge I. C. Ferguson. We mention this in justice to him as we made the mistake of leaving his name out of the list last week. He planted his tree and it is now a living monument to his memory, as are all others to those who planted."

In the years to come when these shrubs have grown to stately trees, children of future generations will play beneath them and bless the memory of those who provided for them in years ago."

We love the spirit of universal help and can gladly shake hands with him who is willing to provide for the comfort of others when it works no inconvenience to himself. Instead of going around with a long face and pointing out the imperfections of people, predicting the worst things to happen and declaring the world is going to the bad, we love to see the man who holds the more optimistic view and looks out for a chance to feel good over a kindness done to humanity. We must not be a one-sided man. We must know that there are others who have opinions that, even though they are different from our own, are as much entitled to consideration as ours. So in life let us look for sunshine to come into our lives by doing deeds of kindness to those who need. With this view we can not fail to get "our money's worth" out of the little labor of love done last Friday for the children of now and af-terwhile.

Now let each watch our trees and see that they grow, and if they do not, plant another in their stead that we may accomplish the good which we have undertaken."

Again let us thank you, one and all, in behalf of the children, for your kindness in helping to plant the trees."

Misses Vicie Lewis, Gladys Day, Kathleen Steel and Florence Cox, four of the prettiest of West Liberty's galaxy of pretty girls, paid the Courier office a delightful call Friday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Minnie Lacy on Thursday, Nov. 14. After devotional exercises and report from secretary, "money making schemes" were discussed. A Christmas Bazaar was planned, sending out formal invitations was voted out for this year. By any friend of the Society desiring to help by sending any useful, saleable article, same will be much appreciated and gladly received.

Also each member of the society has been given 25 cents which they are to invest and multiply. The one making the most of their quarter will receive a pretty souvenir at the open session of the Society first Thursday in February. The meeting closed with the announcement to meet at the home of Mrs. Evert Mathis Thursday, Nov. 21. All members are urged to be present, some important work to be done. Keep in mind the bazaar to be held just before Christmas.

VALLEY FARM.

The Sophomores of the High School will stage the play, Valley Farm, at the High School Auditorium on Saturday night, Nov. 23rd.

Among the Jackson people attending the Circuit Court here we noticed attorneys T. T. Cope, W. N. Cope, Kelly Kash, Will Kash, R. A. Hurst, W. W. McGuire; city marshal C. J. Sewell, Jere Cardwell, Sam Cockrill, Reed Williams. There were from 30 to 40 others, whose names we did not learn, as witnesses in the Robinson case.

The following young ladies and gentlemen visited us and helped us to get out the first issue of the paper from our new office: Misses Maude and Cassie Wells, Fleta Hovermale, Myrtle Rose, Nancy Phipps and Sylvane Combs. Messrs. Kelly Carter, Willis Carter, I. N. Maggard and John Hovermale.

Lee Ferguson, of Index, had about 50 pantries of fence burned Monday. It is supposed that the fire started by careless hunters, who were hunting without permission. Hunters would do well to bear in mind that it is a heavy fine to hunt on another's land without written permission.

Mrs. J. H. Sebastian, of town and Miss Allen, of White Oak, were pleasant callers at the Courier office Wednesday.

Boyd, St. ele and Kelly Walsh, of Columbus, Ohio, are visiting relatives in the county.

My Dear Editor:

I take this occasion to express to you my appreciation of an gratitude for the assistance given me by your paper in my recent race for the position of Appellate Judge.

I am profoundly grateful to you, your paper, and other friends who supported me. The large number of good people of your community and section to whom I am under obligations in this respect preclude my being able to thank each separately in person or by letter, as I would like to do. So I am taking this means of thanking you, and in thanking you for the help and encouragement I received, and I wish to earnestly assure all that I am not less grateful for their support because I was unsuccessful.

I am gratified at the large vote I received under the conditions that existed, and while deeply grateful to all who helped to swell the number which caused me to run ahead of my ticket, I have no resentment against any who did not.

Yours sincerely,

A. J. KOK.

EDITORS NOTE.

A casual reading of the above might lead somebody to believe that the Courier supported Judge Kirk in his race against C. C. Turner. Such is not the case. We sold him advertising space and treated him with all the courtesy due an opponent in a political fight who is a gentleman, for such we recognize Judge Kirk to be. The Courier has space to tell but that doesn't mean that it ever falters in its loyalty to party principles.

SCHOOL PLAY, VALLEY FARM.

A drama in four acts, will be given in the High School auditorium by the sophomore class of Miss Wilson's room, Saturday evening, Nov. 23, at 7 o'clock, under the management of Mrs. Daniel, teacher of music. The public is cordially invited to attend this splendid play. Admission, 15c and 25c. The proceeds are for the benefit of the school.

Circuit Court convened here Monday morning with Judge J. B. Hannah on the bench and commonwealths Attorney Jno. M. Waugh at his post. The instructions to the grand jury were along the usual lines with emphasis on the offenses of whiskey selling and gun toting. Special attention was also called to the violators of the game and fish laws. Up to the time of going to press we have not gotten a report of the work of either of the juries.

The following gentlemen compose the juries:

GRAND JURY—J. Miles Nickell, Squire N. C. Geo. W. Steele, David N. Hen y Polk Oakley, J. H. Rice, W. A. Elam, B. F. Williams, L. E. Ferguson, Jas. P. Ferguson, Shade Combs and Henry Nill. PETTY JURY—J. I. McGuire, Chas. Claypool, D. M. Rowland, Elijah Henry, W. H. Eifenden, Mathew Hale, B. B. Geredon, G. C. Byrd, J. R. Rat III, J. B. Williams, D. V. Cox, Chas. Sample, Tom Phipps, Jas. Wright Logan Murphy, Jno. C. Benton, Paris Benton, Jas. Halsey Alex. Pelfrey, J. W. Bailey, J. J. Carpenter, Alex. Whitaker, Lewis Adkins and C. A. Mulins.

Geo. W. Steele was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

Diden't Prof. Cisco hustle 'em up Arbor Day.
Awfully still like and quiet since the election.

There are still a few unsightly spots on the streets. Better remove them before the mud gets too deep.

The republicans will never forgive the democrats if a panic does not follow the inauguration of Wilson.

Everyone ought to give thanks this year. We have exceptionally good crops of all kinds, Wilson is elected president and Jack Johnson is in jail.

More railroad talk going the rounds. Wonder where or with whom it originated? Keep it up—perhaps something will develop after a while.

Wouldn't it be nice if every body in town would take pattern after a few of our more progressive citizens and build concrete sidewalks before they are forced to do it?

What's the matter with the town clock? Or rather what can be done for it? It refuses to hit the hours off regularly. We suggest that a doctor be called in to examine the thing and see if its case is hopeless.

The C. H. & D. railroad refused to put in a stock signal system, in obedience to the order of the Indiana Railroad Commission, and on last Wednesday a wreck occurred in which fifteen were killed and seventeen were seriously injured. The wife and four children of Clifton Cheney, were among the killed.

Thus to save the expense of providing safety appliances the lives of the people are sacrificed. Will the time ever come when the railroads will obey the law?

An aspiring politician was heard to say not long since, that if he concluded to make the race for a certain office he was going to subscribe for the Courier. Ye Gods, what a public-spirited citizen! Wouldn't a man who patronizes his county paper just to see what his opponents might say about him make one hell of an officer? Voters, watch such a one when he sticks himself up to be voted for. The Courier will help you spot him.

The hunting season opened Friday and never before was there as many disappointed Nimrods as on that day. Many hunters went early afield and tramped through the entire day without bagging a single bobwhite. Birds are scarcer in Morgan county than they were ever known before. This fact is attributable to more than one cause. Last winter was severe and many birds perished from hunger and cold. Pot hunter have contributed largely toward the depletion of game and bird dogs running at large during the nesting season is an other factor in destroying the sport. The last two causes could and ought to be remedied and unless there are some restrictions placed upon the pot hunter and dogs running at large in the spring when the young birds fall an easy prey, the sport will never be worth while in this county again.

There should be some preparation and arrangement made to provide for boarding the pupils who will enter the West Liberty school the coming winter. The people here do not realize fully the benefits to the town that a large number of school students are, and are not really enough to provide arrangement for their accommodation. The large residence of W. M. Kendall, that is advertized for rent would make a splendid girl's dormitory, and some arrangement should be made to get it for that purpose.

And families with sufficient room should be willing to take in a few students to board, not to profit thereby, but to make a big attendance to the school possible.

The opening of the Normal department will add a large number of students to the roll, and no one should be prevented from attending school here on account of no place to board.

One of the strangest things about religion of the later day type is its tendency to make its votaries narrow and intolerant. According to their ideas he who differs from them is wrong, no matter how pure his motives or honest his convictions. To maintain an honest opinion, contrary to that of the church militant, is to be damned, worlds without end. I have been approached, lately, by those who said they were anxious to see this fight, between me and the churches in this town, stopped, who asked and begged me to desist in the interest of harmony. Palpably unreasonable and unfair as their request sounded to me and as it really was, I promised to not strike again except in self defence. To not deliver another blow until I was first struck. This promise I have kept and more than kept. I have ignored several little thrusts and passed them by as unworthy of notice. I don't want to be always in a brawl. I am by nature pacific, but if that good(?) Church member who is quoted as saying that, "we have Cottle thoroughly licked this time; he has fired his big gun and is ready to lay down his arms but is ashamed to say so." I say if that person, whose identity is unknown to me, will come out boldly and above board and make this assertion over their signature, on the presence of witnesses without binding them by a solemn promise not to tell. I repeat if he she or they, will come from under cover and hurl an open defiance of this character at me I will give them such a roasting that their whitened bones will not even smell of scorched flesh. I will burn their leprous bodies and sin saturated souls until the danger from contamination by contact will be reduced to a minimum, taking chances, of course, on the sickening odor arising therefrom creating a resistance.

This article is not meant for the church or churches as a whole. Although I recognize in them, as organized bodies, my implacable enemies, I yet have some friends in the churches who realize that I am not a total moral degenerate; that there are two sides to this question and who know that I am right, but it takes a rare quality of moral courage to run counter to church traditions. There are those who would be my defenders if they were not afraid of public opinion. To those I will say, not apologetically but by way of explanation, that this article is not for them.

I promised to be quiescent so long as I was let alone. This I did and longer still. I only spoke when silence was no longer bearable. And I am forced to acknowledge the futility of my efforts. I am shooting without definite aim, not knowing where my enemy is hidden. I stand out boldly with a square front to the world. If you who insist on keeping up this desultory warfare, from which no good can ever come, will only tell me when you are going to strike, I will receive your fusillades full in the face. You have fired at me from the rear till your breadsides only irritate. They no longer fetch blood.

So goodbye, insistent maligners, for the present. I sometimes wish I knew your identity, but knowing I might be disappointed. Allowing you all the latitude and longitude you can possibly make use of, you are a damned diminutive specimen, a survivor of one of the plagues of Egypt. But keep an expectorating your venom; there is room on terra firma for us all.

D. R. Keeton can meet your ever want.

JURORS DO YOUR DUTY.

Morgan county juries have heretofore borne an unenviable reputation for leniency toward defendants upon whose guilt or innocence they have been called to pass. Men have been acquitted of crime whom the public strongly suspected ought to have been convicted. Others have gotten off with a very little sentence when it appeared to a great many well informed people that they should have had the limit of the law. The best safeguard of the citizens of a community is the strict enforcement of the law; and no set of officers can enforce the law unless they are upheld by both the grand and petit jurors. Unless our juries do their full duty and mete out even handed justice to all alike our county will soon become the dumping ground for trials from other counties on a change of venue, and this is a from of notoriety which we are not seeking. No innocent man should be punished neither should a guilty man go unwhipped of justice, and the greatest menace to public safety and one which does more to foster crime and to embolden the habitual criminal to do more desperate acts is the habit that juries sometimes fall into of letting their sympathy get the upper hand of their judgement and of failing to impose a sentence commensurate with the crime.

Jurors do your duty without fear or favor. Let not sympathy and false sentiment rule when cool judgment rebels. Upon you more than any other class of men the peace and quietude of our country depends.

GUMPTION
Which is Common Sense without Educational Furbelows.
By L. T. HOVERMALE.
The Inevitable.

A careful study of these turns, or rather the result, of the recent election will convince us that what happened was not the result of what man wanted, solely, but what had to be. It was the logical result of the awakening of the people to the sense of the power they held, of the ready weapon of defense they had in the ballot. It was a mighty protest against the injustice which they have so patiently borne for years. While lacking a popular majority Wilson's defeat of Taft was overwhelming and significant.

The election of the democratic candidates and a democratic Congress are but incidents—the first incidents—in the revolution that now is moving onward. The daily press speaks of a threatened revolution. That revolution has been in progress for years. We are in the midst of it. Silently but steadily it has been gathering strength; the great body of wealth-producers—the laborers—have at last turned against the powers that have oppressed them and the election of the democratic ticket is but one milestone in the march of economic progress.

The four million who voted for Roosevelt and the million who voted for Debs are as important factors as the six million who voted for Wilson. The idea of political freedom is now so forceful that even those who deliberately closed their eyes to it must now take heed. The election of the democratic ticket is not the goal of progressive ambition. The people have broken their chains. Party fealty has lost its power to cause the voter to "vote 'er straight." "Bolter" is no longer a term of reproach. The laborer has seen the higher light.

The old stand-pat element of the republican party sees the handwriting on the wall, and are striving to gather together the scattered fragments of the wreck of their party to reorganize on lines that only a few weeks ago they denounced so bitterly. To prevent that old party from going out of existence, as the old Whig party did, the leaders are proposing to abandon all the things they advocated in the recent campaign and build the party upon an entirely new declaration of principles. The progressives are still militant and refuse to go back under the name of the discredited and sinking organization. Shortly the voting members of both of these parties will see that it is the vaulting ambition of two crowds of antagonistic leaders using them for the purpose of self-aggrandisement, and will in righteous indignation leave them.

The republican party can never be rehabilitated. It is buried beyond hope of resurrection. With such men as Roosevelt, Perkins, Munsey and that ilk in the control the progressives can gain no new converts. It will even lose what it has when they see the joke of McCormick, Perkins, Flinn, etc., posing as reformers. The accessions to that party were caused by the striking out blindly of honest men to free themselves from the thralldom of the party of special interests, and it is not their fault that the new party to which they allied themselves is a political hoax. Mr. Roosevelt and his associates, unintentionally, have performed a great service for the country. They have made the independent voters a power entitled to respect. Their work ends there.

But slowly, steadily and surely a new party has grown up. Until recently an object of derision and scorn, it has held to its course, patiently, unwaveringly and hopefully, until at the last election it more than doubled its strength and polled a million votes. It never loses a convert. "Once a socialist always a socialist." Why? Because they have looked beyond the present and have outdistanced all the others in the theory of economic progress—have built upon the correct principles and their position is unassailable. Their theory offers the producers of wealth the only solution that is just and equitable, that strikes the fundamentals.

The inevitable is that in the future the democratic and the socialist parties will be the chief gladiators in the arena of American politics. First the republican and then the progressive party will pass into forgetfulness, and the great battle will be waged between democrats and socialists, and in the end the latter will win. No power of man can prevent this, because no power of man can check the growth of human thought. The democrats advocate the extreme of progressiveness that can be attained under the present system, and, if faithful to their pledges, will bring relief from many of the present burdens, but that will only stimulate the demand for complete justice, and to obtain that the whole system must be changed. And when the wielders of the ballot see the time is ripe for the change, the overthrow of the competitive system will occur.

Events are moving rapidly and this change is due within the generation.

To Cure Gapes.

A very simple remedy for gapes is to get an old bucket or a very deep pan and cover the bottom with air slacked lime to about the depth of an inch and cover the top with an old sack or any old piece of cloth that can be procured. Put chicks in and shake vigorously for about a second, but be careful and give small chicks a very small dose. If this fails the first time try it again. I have had it to cure them when you would have thought they would die any moment. It is best always to take the chicks in hand and give them a small dose "when the first get they snuffles," for that leads to gapes.—National Stockman and Farmer.

Alfalfa a Good Feed For Hens.

All successful poultrymen feed alfalfa, many of them every day in the year. Some feed alfalfa meal, some alfalfa leaves and others alfalfa hay, allowing the hens to pick off the leaves. Alfalfa colors the yolk the dark orange that the pig priced market demands. It also furnishes an appetizing, healthful roughage, supplies material needed in the formation of the egg and is a mild laxative and is a good aid in keeping the hens in active working condition.—Farm Journal.

Compost Experience.

The best place I have found for a compost heap is in a stall under the steers' or cows' feet. I have tried several kinds of compost heap, and find it pays better to put every thing you can in for bedding for the stock, and then haul direct to the field as you clean it out, say once a week.

It is alright to have a small pen to put the things in you cannot use the bedding. I am trying to get more humus in my soil by sowing more crops to turn under, such as rye and peas. I sow rye in the fall for a cover crop and peas in the corn at the last working; turn the rye in the spring for corn and peas in the fall for wheat, and try to make all the compost I can in the stable for both.—Ex.

A Gentleman.

A man that's clean inside and out; who neither looks up to the rich nor down to the poor; who can loose without squealing and who can win without bragging; who is considerate of women, children and old people; who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat, and who takes his share of the world and lets other people have theirs.—New York Sun.

To show The world.

The whole world knows something about the "Winning of the West," but there is very much that could be told of the magnificent country beyond the Mississippi river, stretching away for 2,000 miles westward and still westward toward the setting sun.

What reader hereof knows that Louisiana ranks next to the great states of the Pacific coast as a producer of lumber? Or that she is the greatest producer of sulphur, as of sugar? What reader knows how near the top of the list Oregon stands as a producer of hops, or Missouri as a source of lead, corn and cattle; what richness the valley of the Arkansas pours into the lap of commerce, which State has the most sheep grazing on its plains, what rivers of crude petroleum flow from the wells of Texas, or where the most rice or wheat is grown? How many know that in a river delta richer than that of the Nile, the people of California and Nevada are growing the finest cotton in the world, the best dates ever placed before an epicure, and table grapes that would make the mouth of Bacchus water? No breakfast table to-day is quite complete unless it is graced by the peerless navel oranges of California, but California, produces a hundred choice other products of the soil—raisins, olives, wine, nuts, figs—More than could be catalogued in a column of this paper. The State of Washington, possessing wealth so boundless that no assessor could estimate it, has room for more people than crowd the British Isles. Idaho,

Nevada, Montana, New Mexico—all the States of the rich empire, are offering wealth to the settler who comes to develop the land and improve the opportunities submitted to him.

It almost staggers the imagination to take even a glimpse at the wonders of the West, but at the San Diego Exposition these great States will present to the public visible demonstration of what they have done and are doing, with perhaps some prophesy of what will be done in the near future. They will present convincing reasons why men and women should desert the unhealthy environments of the crowded centers of the Old and the New World, and seek wealth and health, (which is more to be wished for,) in the great wonderland of Western America.

Successful Compost.

Having almost no stock, just one horse and one pig, I make my compost heap as follows, and always have enough for about three acres of cotton and plenty also for the garden and orchard: I go into the woods and get a good load of nearly rotten pine straw and leaves, put them into the stable; after being there a week or so, begin my compost heap with them. Then all grass, etc., tidied up in the garden, perhaps a barrow load or two of sawdust from where the stove wood is sawed, then another load of straw and leaves just as they come from the woods the whole lot well dampened (if dry weather) and sprinkled with about fifty pounds of kaint, then stable litter again, and so on. The hog pen is littered with nearly all leaves, and that also goes on my compost heap. Save everything, even chicken feathers; it all helps to make a large heap.

Let the hens scratch about on the top of the heap, they don't do any harm, but good. I find that the pine straw leaves rot better with a trace of stable manure in them, but grass and green stuff of all kinds ferments and rots rapidly. My three acres of of Sunbeam cotton, manured with about six loads of this compost to the acre, looked like three bales in July.—James E. Thomas in Home and Farm.

OHIO MAJORITY IS BIG

INCOMING RETURNS INDICATE GREAT DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

Cox Running Ahead of Wilson—Taft Will Run Second in Popular Vote of State.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Without definite figures upon which to base an accurate computation, the prediction that Mr. Woodrow Wilson would have a minimum plurality of 75,000 and a maximum whose ultimate amount would be 200,000 still stands. Incomplete returns indicate that it will range between 100,000 and 150,000. The same canvass points to the lead over Wilson by Congressman James M. Cox in the final results. The Democratic nominee shows a better general average than the candidate for president, especially in the municipalities. The discounted weakness in rural territory it now seems was magnified unduly. In certain counties Cox displayed unusual and unexpected strength.

JAMES M. COX, OF DAYTON, OHIO.

There is no longer the slightest question of priority of place in favor of President Wm. Howard Taft over Theodore Roosevelt, and this definition applies as well to Gen. Robert B. Brown, the Republican nominee for governor, who has apparently finished well in front of Arthur L. Garford, the Progressive candidate. The third party, instead of an impressive spread in Republican and doubtful territory, carried only a beggarly array of counties.

Interest Shifts to Judges.

Interest has now shifted to the outcome of the highly confused contest for supreme court judges and to the official results in figures in the presidential and gubernatorial races. This interest is due to the many wagers and predictions made during the campaign. The official canvassing now going forward will not be completed until next Saturday at the earliest.

Usually it is the winners who make the long statements after the results are definitely known, but Democratic State Chairman W. L. Finley was so tired out that he fell into his bed in the afternoon before he had time to do more than say that the Democratic management is thankful for the victory won and hopes to justify the confidence given it. He thought Wilson would have about 150,000 plurality when all votes are counted. He issued no formal declaration.

Progressive State Chairman Walter F. Brown said: "The Progressives have just begun the fight. They will continue to fight until their cause is won. In three months we have accomplished more than any other party ever accomplished in three years."

Republican State Chairman Harry M. Daugherty said: "The Republican party never had as hard a fight. I join in the regret that the party has not been successful in carrying the election, but in congratulations that the worst thing possible has not happened. The Republican party in the year 1912 has done what it has always done when a crisis threatened the country, performed a service that will add to its great strength and great credit in preventing the election of a third-term candidate, who sought to take possession of the party to gratify his personal ambition, and of men who were defeated honorably by Republican conventions who saw fit to run against or to antagonize the men who defeated them."

Elyria, O.—Arthur G. Garford, Progressive candidate for governor of Ohio, issued the following statement: "To the Progressives of Ohio who have fought the losing fight with such courage and devotion, I wish to extend my thanks and my congratulations on the splendid results achieved. As the result of the campaign just ended Progressive principles have become a vital factor in Ohio politics. Reaction is dead in our state. The Progressive party in Ohio has been unborn, not defeated."

Zanesville, O.—Gen. R. B. Brown, Republican candidate for governor, said: "It seems that we are badly defeated. We made the best fight we knew how, but our efforts have been in vain. I am still a Republican, a believer in Republican principles, and if I had the campaign to fight over again I would fight it in just the same way. I am deeply grateful to my friends and neighbors for their support."

NEW MIKADO IS DEMOCRATIC

Simple in His Habits and Opposed to Ostentatious Display When Land Is Poor.

Yoshihito, the new mikado of Japan, is a personality almost unknown to the western world. He is educated and able and no one has suggested that in administrative affairs his hands are tied or that he is in any way lacking in forcefulness. Yet this ruler, who could be as ostentatious as he pleased, is said to have the peaceful good nature of a child. He cut the ministerial allowance for the late emperor's funeral 25 per cent, because he did not believe in display when there was poverty and distress in his land, and arranged to defray a part of the cost from his own palace fund.

It is related that he does not take very kindly to the oriental idea of being ever surrounded by bowing, humming courtiers and attendants, and that when on a drive from the palace through the streets of Tokyo he was so annoyed to see that the royal cavalcade was fenced by a saluting crowd and that traffic was entirely blocked that he ordered that in the future his drive should be along the less crowded streets.

When verging on manhood he went hunting and shot a deer. The cries of other deer, which he believed to be the children of the one he had killed, sickened him, and in his grief he wrote a poem regretting his act and has since declined to hunt.

He is democratic and is even said to have stolen away from the palace disguised as a workman and associated with his fellow toilers on terms of absolute equality.

His Rest.

Pierre Loti, the famous French author, praised American energy at the Hotel Marie Antoinette in New York. "There's a story," he said, "that illustrates well the energy of your men of affairs."

"A gentleman called at the office of an indefatigable millionaire financier. It was four o'clock in the afternoon, and the financier lay back in his revolving chair with his feet on his desk, and a picture magazine in his hand."

"I've worked mighty hard for the last ten years without a day's vacation," he explained. "I feel all run down, and I'm now going to take a long rest."

"And a well-earned rest it will be, too," said the visitor, heartily.

"The visitor departed, expecting that the millionaire would set out at once for Europe or California, but the next morning he saw him presiding as busily as ever at an important directors' meeting."

"Why, how about that long rest?" he asked.

"Didn't I take it yesterday afternoon?" he said.

Porto Rico's Advancement.—Porto Rico, until recently benighted, lax and lethargic, whose trade was of little importance to the world, has risen until it stands twelfth among the countries of the globe as a customer of the United States. Last year the island purchased from this country over $37,000,000 worth of products. The islanders cannot supply the demand made upon them for coffee, tobacco and other products, and are prospering generally.
